Perforated Vinyl Transforms Your Windows

Clear Focus perforated window vinyl is a unique, custom printed material that displays full-color advertising while maintaining see-through visibility. The material has an adhesive backing for installation on the outside of a window. It allows you to see out of your window from the inside and allows your customers to see what appears to be solid graphics on the outside. It is an ideal material for large-scale storefront window graphics as the application process is exceptionally easy. The media backing peels off to expose an adhesive back that should be applied to a smooth, clean and clear surface for optimum results. The perforated film can be pulled up and repositioned several times during application, so if you make a mistake, it is easy to fix.

Another reason to order One Way Vision is to add privacy. For businesses such as spas and medical offices that don't want prying eyes peering into their windows, One Way Vision is the perfect solution. Patients and customers can still see out, but it is difficult for those outside your building to see in. In addition, light still passes through the perforations in the material, with the inside of the window looking like a privacy tint has been applied.

Storefront windows can be utilized to provide potential customers with a great first impression, while still promoting your store's brand the way it was intended. This application is becoming very popular among retailers and luxury brands. Specific applications for perforated window vinyl include:

- Vehicle windows
- Interior glass windows
- Exterior glass windows
- Interior glass doors
- Exterior glass doors
- Other glass applications

Many companies also install perforated window vinyl to hide away the clutter of a remodel or renovation. It's useful when you are preparing to open a new store or converting an area to storage.
